

It seems to me, with the power and hubris the media has under the current law, as well as all the misinformation coming from the media, that allowing the media to have greater control over any one market and own all types of media in one city would be a blow to the freedom of the American people. When one corporation has the ability to slant the news that much in one area, it can only serve to affect the way the citizens view the world.